Foreword

TIME is seemingly endless. It stretches into the future farther than the imagination can grasp. TIME, at Liberty Center, is like our sundial. The darkest portion, where the shadow lies, is present. The gray is past, hazed by the passage of TIME. Only the future remains white on the dial, for it is yet unseen. As the sun revolves, our TIME lines, which are recording past happenings, will darken into present. These pages of our 1965 MEMORIES are attempting to record those events most important to

New School, Old School Tied Together by Leaders

Mr. James Roush, principal of Liberty Center School, Southern Wells Corporation, is shown leaving his office to go to one of his classes.

Mr. Roush is currently bringing to a close his first year as principal, a position for which he has diligently prepared.

Southern Well's superintendent, Mr. Lloyd Biberstine, is examining the artist's conception of the new school unit.

This unusual plan will consist of three round buildings, the first of this type for Indiana.

Mr. Charles Day, president of the Southern Wells School Board and representative from Liberty Township, conducts a meeting to discuss the bonding issue for the new consolidated school.

These men have conscientiously seen to the business of the future school, trying to remove as many problems as possible.

Classes

Graphs, Mock Elections, Vocabulary Cards

Mrs. Mabel Metz, math teacher, and Cathy Grover are looking on as Steve Haiflich is working out a graph problem in advanced algebra.

In addition to teaching all math classes in junior high and high school, she is in charge of the school library.

Although Mrs. Metz has a busy schedule, she is instructor of the girls physical education class.

The proper marking of national ballots is under discussion in government class under the direction of Mr. Robert Mossburg. Since a mock national election was held in November, Liberty's history teacher instructed grades seven through twelve on voting procedure. Mr. Mossburg, a past graduate of Liberty Center, holds a bachelor of Science degree from Purdue University.

Intrigue Our Academically Minded Students

Showing juniors Marcia Melton, Sharon Culp and Kent Frantz, how to use their vocabulary cards is Mrs. Brenda Payne. The vocabulary program was initiated this year in junior and senior English classes.

Mrs. Payne has taught at Liberty the past four years. During this time she has taught English and journalism and speech. Duties as speech and journalism teacher include being advisor of the annual and newspaper staffs.

Mr. Eldon Carnes is sharpening a red-leaded grading pencil, which he uses quite frequently for checking seventh and eighth grade English papers.

In addition to teaching junior high English, Mr. Carnes has been teaching these students the art of oral book reporting. He also teaches the car part of drivers training at all four Southern Wells schools. He has held this position in Liberty for the past 10 years.

Ross Myers, business instructor, is helping bookkeeping students Judy Archbold and Phil Dawson with a work sheet problem. Being the bookkeeping teacher, Mr. Meyers performs the duties of the school secretary, daily keeping books and counting lunch money.

Joining our faculty for the 1964-65 school year, Mr. Myers is also heading the athletic department. Baseball, basketball and track coaching keep Coach Myers on the go besides his boys' physical education activities.

Three New Instructors Plus Principal

Actively engaged in the instruction of a health class is school principal, James Roush. During the year he has taught two semesters of health, an intermediate course taught to the freshmen and a more complex study given to upper classmen.

To explain a unit of study covered in their textbook, Mr. Roush is showing the junior-senior class an aorta of the heart. Another junior-senior class taught by this science major is chemistry.

Currently Mr. Roush is working for his Doctors Degree at Ball State Teachers College, while teaching his tenth year at Liberty. Upon receiving his Bachelors Degree from Purdue University in 1953, he started his teaching responsibilities at Liberty in September of 1955.

Discussing the formation of a leaf's structure to biology students Kenny Flowers and Kris Dunn, is first year faculty member Mr. John Sieberns.

In addition to teaching freshman biology, he conducts classes in science, agriculture and shop. Mr. Sieberns served as advisor to all of the judging teams which represent Liberty Center. Ten Tuesday or Thursday evenings find during January, February and March Mr. Sieberns involved with Adult Farm Classes. This spring and summer he will serve full-time as 4-H leader for the "Loam Lovers" club.

Add to School Faculty

Graduation exercises at Ball State Teachers College brought Linda Wilhoite to our home Economics Department. Instructing units of clothing, foods, family life and related arts involve the three home economics classes given by Miss Wilhoite. Another teaching duty she fulfills during the year is that of eighth grade science. While teaching these courses required her full attention, she also sponsored the F. H. A., Pep Club, cheerleaders and the freshman class.

Special Music Provided Language , Art Enlarge

Teaching vocal music to the junior high and high school is the responsibility of Mrs. Betty Cline. Special programs throughout the year are presented under the direction of Mrs. Cline. "A Song Unending" was the Christmas cantata presented through the combined efforts of the Jackson and Liberty High School Choruses. The cantata along with the annual Spring Festival were two of the major achievements of the year. Jackson's gymnasium was the scene of the Spring Festival which was held April 23. Mrs. Cline was one of the vocal directors responsible for this enjoyable program.

Director of the Southern Wells Band, Mr. William Hernandez has many responsibilities to fulfill. Marching at the Indiana State Fair was a highlight of the year for Mr. Hernandez as well as for the band. Street Fair brought another chance for the band to prove their abilities by marching in the annual contest held on Wednesday night of the fair.

Basketball season was one which kept Mr. Hernandez quite busy. The Southern Wells Band played for one of the ballgames of each of the four Southern Wells schools. In addition to playing for the regular season games, the band played for the 4-Way Tourney held in January.

by Rotating Teachers; School's Curriculum

Art seems to be a favorite subject of most youngsters and with the help of art teacher Miss Martha Lynn, art brings a challenge to learn as well as provide enjoyment. Becky Cassiday and Mike Huffman are learning the art of paper folding under Miss Lynn's guidance.

This is Miss Lynn's second year of teaching at Liberty Center. She also teaches art in the other three schools of Southern Wells. Each school has Miss Lynn once a week with every fourth week one school receives an extra day of art classes.

Learning a foreign language is quite a new experience for the freshmen this year. Instructor for the Spanish class is Mrs. Parra who also teaches at the other three Southern Wells schools. One of the interesting projects of the class was to learn Christmas carols in Spanish with the aid of a tape recorder.

Having one class of Spanish, Mrs. Parra comes to Liberty for one period each day. This is the first time that a foreign language, such as Spanish, has been taught at Liberty Center for a number of years.

Team Teaching, Ungraded Reading Initiated

Mrs. Violet Brane indicates the position of the Indian Ocean on the map, just one of the many waters that her fifth graders have been studying in geography. Geography is a new subject to them, and it becomes more interesting as they study it in connection with map work.

Taking time out from his duties as sixth grade teacher, Mr. Ronald Decker seeks refreshment at the drinking fountain.

Serving as coach for the fifth and sixth grade basketball team as well as all junior high sports keeps Mr. Decker quite busy following his school day.

Besides teaching at Liberty for the past two years, Mr. Decker also has been working toward his masters degree in administration at Ball State.

by Top Elementary Grades

A new reading program is just one of the many topics that the grade teachers discuss when the opportunity arises.

One such time occurred on the front steps between the three teachers, who are initiating the program, and Mrs. Flora Kirtley. Mrs. Frances Clark tells Mrs. Kirtley an interesting report about her reading class that day as Mr. Ronald Decker and Mrs. Violet Brane look on.

Watering the flowers at the back of her room is just one of the small tasks that Mrs. Frances Clark performs at the beginning of each day. The many potted plants add a pleasing decor to her fourth grade room.

Mrs. Flora Kirtley fulfills her duty as the third grade teacher by participating in some of the games her pupils play at recess time.

This gives her a chance to supervise the children at play and to get better acquainted with them.

Grade Teachers Plan, Teach, Then Evaluate Their Pupils' Learning

Learning to count is just one of the many projects of the first graders. By using pictures on a flannel board it is easier for them to learn to count.

With the help of Mrs. Lenna Rittenhouse, Rodney Stinson and Sheryl Meade learn their numbers by counting the number of pears.

Getting her material ready each day for her class is just one of Mrs. Donna Simpson's responsibilities as the second grade teacher. The plan book is used by Mrs. Simpson so that an accurate class account can be made of the school day.

Mrs. Lenna Rittenhouse points to the board as Mrs. Donna Simpson prepares to demonstrate the use of words which are used in arithmetic.

Harold Jones, custodian, is preparing to put coal into the furnace on a cold Winter day.

Bus drivers, Orin Bowman, Dwight Pace, Pat Garrett, Ben Soper and Ike Huffman, are caught in an informal pose as they pass the time until the 3:30 bell rings, which dismisses the charges these men must see home.

Varied Services Are Provided by School Help

Helping serve are the cooks Mrs. Mary Craig and Mrs. Doris West. This is just one of the many duties they perform each day. Doris has been working at the cafeteria six years, while this is the first year for Mary.

Lunch co-ordinator Pat Higgins prepares to leave Liberty after collecting the weekly lunch money. Mrs. Higgins is filling the new financial position for the entire Southern Wells Lunch Program.

Senior Officers Lead

In addition to serving as an officer for his class and other groups, John also finds time for his favorite sport - basketball. He has played three years on the second team and one year on varsity.

This busy "little" senior is checking the class funds to see how much money is yet needed for the senior trip. Judy Smith also keeps the accounts for the FHA this year.

Her interests also lie in the field of music. She has been an accompanist for the chorus two years and a band member six years.

Taking a breather from the serious duties of being officers, Randy Raber, vice president; John Collins, president; Judy Smith, treasurer; and Sonja Cardin, secretary; find a diversion in a ride on the merry-go-round. Senior officers have a big responsibility in preparing the class for the senior trip, Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises, and other appointed activities.

Class in Various Projects Throughout Year

This familiar scene of sportsman Randy Raber toting his satchel to school for basketball practice has been viewed for the past four years by practically every student at Liberty Center.

One of the most memorable times in Randy's basketball career was when he was a starter on the Lion team who met Swayzee in the 1964 Regional Tournament at Marion, Indiana.

Randy has also participated in track two years; cross country one year; and baseball four years.

Class offices held by this energetic senior include president his freshman and junior years and vice president this year.

Making sure her cheerleading sweater is in good condition for the next basketball game is third year Lion pepster Sonja Cardin.

A very time-consuming activity for Sonja this year was her editorship of the 1964 MEMORIES. Other activities for Sonja include FHA, band, chorus, and 4-H. Offices held by this lass are class secretary and treasurer and Honor Society treasurer.

Working hard to meet newspaper and annual deadlines is typist Barbara Chism. She has spent many hours working on copy to fill the spaces of "The Rebel Review" and the 1965 MEMORIES and as a result is very proud of the fine job she has done.

Barb has been on hand all four high school years to cheer her favorite Lion team on to victory. Besides being a pep club member, this senior has also been active in FHA for three years and 4-H nine years.

The production of "The Able Miss Cain" was also a very exciting part of Barbara's senior year. She played the part of a nosy old woman who was always prying into her neighbors affairs.

Classes, Extracurricular Responsibilities

Studying for her next big government test is history major Linda Jones. Even though social studies is Linda's favorite subject, she also enjoys English and home economics.

After graduation this senior plans to enter Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Michigan and major in business or nursing.

In this her senior year Linda has been active in 4-H and has been a busy worker for the "The Rebel Review" of which she is assistant editor.

Judging contests have been a center of interest in senior Jeff Stinson's work in FFA and agriculture. Jeff served on two County Livestock teams which won first place and a County Dairy team which also took top honors.

Besides serving in FFA for four years this senior boy showed beef and swine at the 4-H Fairs for eight years.

Jeff participated in cross country his junior year and basketball his freshman and sophomore years.

The junior and senior classes found Jeff an eager hand when it came time to construct the stage for the class plays. He also managed to help usher on both evenings of the play.

Provide Learning Experiences for Seniors

Checking a road map for proper directions is FHA state vice president Erma Buse. As a result of holding a state office Erma received the privilege of touring Chicago, Illinois and Washington D. C. last summer. Erma has been a dedicated member of the Future Homemakers of America for four years.

Also keeping Erma busy in winter as well as summer is her position as drum majorette of the Southern Wells High School Band. She has been a member of band all four high school years.

Activities for Erma include pep club, 4-H, GAA, and being class secretary her freshman year and class president her sophomore year. She is also a council member of Honor Society.

Being the Liberty Center editor of the "Rebel Review" is just one of the many duties of energetic Karol Kirtley. An outstanding attribute of this senior is that she has been a cheerleader for four consecutive years, three of those years being varsity cheerleader.

In addition to having been president of FHA, 4-H, and GAA, Karol served as treasurer of her junior class. Because of her sincere interest in the FHA, Karol has attended the state convention for three years.

Chorus, band and class plays are other activities which have occupied Karol's time.

Through all her activities, Karol has kept her scholastic standing to a 9. average which has given her the privilege of being a member of the National Honor Society.

As May Approaches These Seniors' Thoughts

Having been an accompanist for the high school chorus four years, talented Sue Funk has taken her position at the keyboard on many occasions. She proved her musical talent by winning a first in the NISBOVA her junior year.

In addition to being musically inclined, Sue has shown a great quality of leadership in both her class and in many organizations. She has been president of the Lion pep club three consecutive years, president of the FHA, and held offices in 4-H, and GAA. Sue was also a delegate to Girls' State as well as being a member of the Honor Society.

For the past two years, Donna Campbell has been a busy worker at the cafeteria. Her junior year Donna had the job of punching tickets at noon. This year her duties include buttering bread, filling ketchup bottles and just making sure everything is in good condition for her hungry schoolmates.

Other activities for Donna consist of chorus her freshman year and pep club her freshman and senior years.

Helping with stories for the "Rebel Review" is one of Donna's pastimes at school this year. She has also helped with the production of the 1965 MEMORIES.

Turn to Graduation and What Lies Ahead

Studying his lines for the junior-senior class play is senior Phil Dawson. Phil participated in "Happy Daze" in the spring of his junior year and "The Able Miss Cain" in the fall of his senior year.

Also being sportsminded, Phil has taken part in track, four years; cross country, two years; baseball, three years; and basketball, one year. As a result of his enthusiasm in sports, Phil won the physical fitness trophy his sophomore year.

Phil has also been a member of chorus four years and has played the saxophone in the Southern Wells Consolidated Band three years, in addition to being a member of pep club his freshman and junior years.

Journalism Students Fulfill Many Duties

That long awaited day, is finally reached as editor-in-chief, Sonja Cardin, hands postman Paul Frantz this "prized package".

First year cameraman Steve Haiflich was often seen taking an on-the-spot picture with the school's Graflex camera.

Karol Kirtley and Linda Jones, co-editors of "The Rebel Review" are shown typing stencils for the monthly paper. "The Rebel Review" is a consolidated paper for the four Southern Wells schools.

These journalism students along with editor Sonja Cardin, and advisor Mrs. Payne, were solely responsible for the planning of this year's MEMORIES. Making posters for annual sales was just one phase of their work. In addition to the annual, each student was responsible for stories in each publication of "The Rebel Review".

Honor Society Stresses Character Fundamentals

Preparations for the first official meeting of Liberty Center's Honor Society are being made by this year's members: Steve Haiflich, Cynthia McElhaney, Cindy Harris, Cathy Grover, Sonja Cardin, Karen Glass, Joe Markley, Sue Funk, Karol Kirtley, and Erma Buse.

Liberty Center's members are a portion of the Southern Wells National Honor Society. Students from Jackson, Petroleum, and Chester also constitute this organization.

Society offices are divided so that each school has two officers. Liberty Center is represented by Sonja Cardin, treasurer, and Erma Buse, executive council delegate.

Shown at graduation exercises are two 1964 graduates, Bill Day, valedictorian, and Jim Harris, salutatorian. These honored students were members of the first local National Honor Society.

Future Farmers and Homemakers Initiate

FIRST ROW: B. Stinson, treas.; J. Arnold, vice-pres.; J. Collins, pres.; K. Scott, sec.; J. Stinson, rep.; L. Garrett, sent.
SECOND ROW: R. Westfall, D. Hall, M. Biberstine, S. Clark, K. Day, S. Raber, R. Brinneman.
THIRD ROW: Mr. Sieberns, sponsor; H. Eldridge, J. Dulworth, E. Funk, K. Flowers, P. Dolby, M. Baublet, T. Brinneman.

The senior members of F. H. A. have always been in charge of telling the incoming girls what their "outfits" will be for the one day of school set aside for their initiation. This year the girls wore signs saying, for instance, "I am a scarecrow," and dressed accordingly. Shown here are four of the initiates preparing refreshments for the entire F. H. A. group.

Initiates Tom Brinneman, Roger Brinneman, Marvin Biberstine, Paul Dolby, Ronnie Westfall, Steve Clark, Hizzie Eldridge, and Kenny Flowers, watch F. F. A. president John Collins at the drinking fountain while at the same time they wonder what his "rough" initiation was like. These fellows feel as though they have really worked for the honor of becoming members, but know they have much to learn.

Then Clubs Work Toward Combined Project

In the spring of the school year the F. F. A. and F. H. A. sponsor a Spring Dance. The main event of the evening is the crowning of the F. H. A. Queen and the F. F. A. King and the naming of the queen's court. Posed in the beauty of the outdoors is the 1964 Queen, Sue Funk, King, John Collins, and court Shelvia Basey, Karol Kirtley, Delice Snyder, and Sonja Cardin.

FIRST ROW: E. Buse, district president; J. Liest, parliamentarian; J. Smith, treasurer; S. Cardin, vice-president; S. Funk, president; D. Snyder, secretary; J. Archbold, historian; K. Frantz, reporter; C. McElhaney, recreation leader.
SECOND ROW: R. Zook, C. Walburn, J. Niblick, K. Kirtley, S. Basey, C. Lieurance, J. Kober, C. Snyder, C. Galloway.
THIRD ROW: R. Flowers, P. Gerwig, M. Dolby, D. Redding, M. Melton, K. Glass, S. Biberstein, L. Buse, S. Poulson, Miss Wilhoite, sponsor.

Leading the band on contest evening is Majorette Erma Buse, senior from Liberty Center. When the winners were announced, the Blue Band was proud to learn that they had tied with Eastern of Howard County.

Southern Wells Musicians, Band and Chorus,

Band director William Hernandez adjusts the valves of a student's French horn.

Checking musical instruments is just one of Mr. Hernandez's responsibilities as instructor for the band of the four schools.

Summer practice sessions, evening rehearsals, parades, and contests compose a busy schedule for the Blue Band's director.

Mr. Hernandez was previously instructor at Liberty Center before being appointed director of all the Southern Wells Schools in the fall of 1963.

Compete in Contests

Vocal music director Mrs. Betty Cline, is checking her newly acquired file cabinet for music to be used by contestants in the NISBOVA contest. This year approximately 75 Liberty students entered in either soloists or ensemble competition with three first place winners.

High school and junior high chorus occupies two periods of Mrs. Cline's day while the remaining time is spent daily with the six elementary grades.

Contests, Christmas Programs, and Spring Festivals are highlights of the year for Liberty Center's music students under Mrs. Cline's direction.

for Liberty Youth

Cammy Lieurance, after several years in 4-H Club work, clinched the Grand Champion 4-H Steer for Wells County in 1964 with a steady hand.

This red-headed lass participates in both the girl and boy divisions of this club. Liberty Center hopes to keep this honor next year.

4-H Club awardees, Erma Buse, Sonja Cardin, Judy Smith, Kathy Frantz, Karen Glass, and Karol Kirtley, are discussing Erma's Key Club Award for 1964.

Special honors range from Liberty Township 4-H Queen Karol Kirtley, to Training Camp and Wells County officer. Sonja Cardin.

Senior Actors, Old and New, Present Skits

Having asked "mommy", Sonja Cardin, and "daddy", John Collins, how Santa gets into their house, when they do not have a chimney, "sissy", Judy Smith, eagerly awaits an answer.

This scene was included in one of the senior skits viewed by pupils in grades 7 through 11. A religious program about the birth of Christ was also presented at this time.

"Happy Daze" actor Randy Raber is truly in a daze after discovering his sister's ransom note. Classy crook Elmer, played by Bruce Stanton; ponders over the way to dispose of Wilbur's sister.

After their part in the Christmas program was over these 12 relaxed seniors gathered around their Christmas box with sponsor Robert Mossburg before conducting their annual gift exchange. Presents received ranged from charms to dogs - - stuffed that is!

Following the classes' separate exchanges, the Christmas treat and December school papers were distributed by the class before school was dismissed for a 12 day vacation.

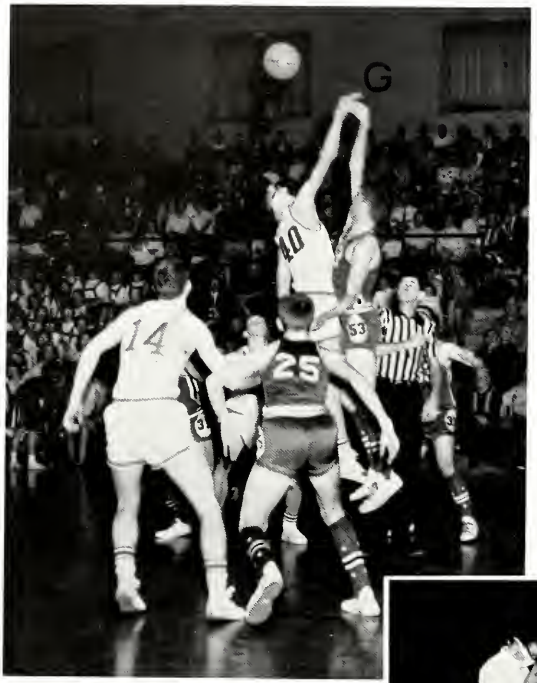
New Coach, New Players Plus Determination



The familiar scene of "the opening tip-off" has been viewed by every basketball fan throughout our Hoosier state this season.

John Collins, Lion center, jumps against Larry Stoppenhagen of Ossian to gain control of the ball in the Liberty-Ossian game. The clash between the traditional rivals took place on the Bear's floor.

Waiting in readiness to receive the ball are Joe Markley (14) and Mike Harris (32). Lion guard, Randy Raber, watches the ball on the far side.

Lion Medical Center was the scene of an operation by "Doctor" Joe Markley on a patient suffering from "Pantheritis", "Jaguaritis", and "Indianitis". This skit was held previous to the 4-way Tourney.

Co-captains Randy Raber and John Collins accept the 4-Way Tourney trophy from Southern Wells Superintendent Lloyd Biberstine. The Lions captured the Southern Wells Tourney for the fourth consecutive year.

First year Lion coach, Ross Myers, points out a play to his rebuilding team before a big game. Coach Myers led his team to nine victories for the 1964-65 basketball season.

Cutting and distributing orange sections to three varsity players, Mike Harris, John Collins, and Joe Markley, is Lion manager Steve Haiflich.

Among Steve's other duties as manager are taking care of the first aid kit and in general just being around when he is needed.

Steve has proven to be a great asset to the Lion team this his first year as manager.

Peppy Cheerleaders Boost Team Spirit

The highlight to the pre-season basketball activities was the bonfire held on the school grounds the Friday evening before the opening game with Warren. Under the direction of the varsity cheerleaders this pep rally got the student body in the mood for the favorite Hoosier sport.

Striking a familiar pose are varsity pepsters Karol Kirtley, Sonja Cardin and Delice Snyder. These girls devoted many hours to practicing by themselves and with the Pep Club so that they could make a good showing for the Lions.

Serving as varsity cheerleader for three years is senior Karol while Sonja, senior, and Delice, Junior, have helped Karol cheer for their team the last two years.

The 4-Way Blind Tourney fans saw the uniformally outfitted Pep Club in white blouses or shirts accented with red bows led in several new yells by the cheerleaders. Especially for this tourney the varsity and B-team cheerleaders worked out a F-I-G-H-T yell accompanied by rhythm sticks and a snare drum.

Experiences Vary for Junior Varsity

Preparations for varsity clubwork traditionally started with the B-team, who energetically worked toward new plays this year.

During the season several of the B-team regulars were used as subs for varsity players at the tourney. Fred Nash (23) is shooting a field goal to add to the Lions' score at the 4-Way Tourney while playing Petroleum in the afternoon game.

Second row: Fred Nash, Jerry Dulworth, Eric Funk, Kris Dunn, Kent Day, Hizzie Eldridge, Coach Ross Myers.

B-team cheerleaders, Jill Kober, Cheryl Snyder, and Cammy Lieurance, lead the Pep Club in one of their new yells as they teach the members the words and motions to the cheers.

This makes the first year of high school that these three girls have been cheerleaders, although Cammy has been cheerleader consecutively since the fifth grade and Jill led yells during the 5th and 6th grades.

B-Team Pepsters Gain Valuable Experience, As Junior High Cheerleaders Support Team

Leaving through the north door of the school are seventh graders Joyce Day and Terry Mendenhall and eighth grader Vickie Haiflich, cheerleaders, as they prepare to go to the gym for their team's game.

These girls, with their bright red and white outfits and cheery smiles, have led their classmates in support of the junior high basketball team through their 2 victories and 12 defeats.

First row: Manager Ron Frank, Kent Inskeep, Bob Funk, Ted Frantz, John Miller, Joe Nash, and Coach Ron Decker.
Second row: David Cole, David Redding, Dick Thompson, Ted Harris, Bill McElhaney, Jim Pace, and Rodney Mossburg.
Third row: Ricky Burdge, Joe Kober, Brent Cardin, Kenny Zook, Tim Huffman, Richard Poulson, and Jeff Smith.

Ending the season with a 5-2 record the Lions were also the Champs of Southern Wells. To make these victories possible the team as a whole batted .236 for the 1964 season. These boys made this possible:
Third row: Marvin Biberstine, Steve Haiflich, Phil Dawson, Kenny Huffman, Kent Day, Coach Ross Myers.

Well-Balanced Lion Team

Starting regular pitchers Randy Raber and Kenny Huffman are shown in action on the Liberty diamond contributing their part toward a Southern Wells Championship.

Senior Randy, in addition to pitching four games, also batted .381 for the season. Kenny, whose .400 hitting average was high for the team, pitched against three foes.

First year Lion coach Ross Myers watches intensely the actions of his ball team during the Ossian-Liberty game early in the season. This game resulted in the first of their two defeats at the hands of Northern Wells teams.

Cindermen Mike Harris and Larry Garrett sort through a box of track warm-ups in preparation for the Spring track season.

The trackmen start practicing in early March for the meets which begin in April and conclude with the county meet in Bluffton in May.

Track Members Start Preparations for Season With 'High Hopes' of Setting Track Records

These sprinters practice a start on the school grounds early in the season as Coach Ross Myers and fellow track members look on. Those members watching Mike Harris, Larry Garrett, and Phil Dawson are Junior and Hizzie Eldridge, Marvin Biberstine, Bruce Stinson, Jim Burkholder, Steve Haiflich, and Kent Day.

5th-6th Graders Prepare for Coming Years

The A-team for the fifth and sixth grade basketball team consist of:

Members of the B-team are as follows:

Veteran cheerleader Susan Inskeep, watches classmate Judy Kober straighten the collar of a fifth grader Debbie Minnear's blouse as the girls prepare for leading their "pep club" in a fifth and sixth grade basketball game.

These girls are gaining valuable experience which can be used in their future years when trying for cheerleader in junior high and high school.

"It would seem that a schoolhouse was the first thing to appear on the site of Liberty Center" - and so it was.

The first halls of learning erected for L.C.H.S. consisted of a group of logs. A frame building occupied for both school purposes and public meetings composed the second, and finally a two-story brick building.

Then, the present abode of the Liberty students as seen in 1912 - "The most modern graded high school building is at Liberty Center. . ."

This heritage is being carried on as we build the first round school building in Indiana. It will consist of one main round structure and two round satellites for the cafetorium and gymnasium.

We, the senior class, hope the 1965 MEMORIES is gratifying in relating, comparing and estimating the past, present, and future for you, the alumni of Liberty Center High School.

The final chapter of a school history is being written by this class which will be cherished by us in years to come, as it is by you already, for past and present work together to create a better and more satisfying future.

"We salute you and the memories that our grand old school has given us" - to you this book is dedicated.

Seniors Erma Buse and Jeff Stinson shop for groceries at LUDWIG'S I.G.A. FOODTOWN, which is located 1/4 mile south of Bluffton. The store is open seven days a week from 9 'til 9.

Today the United States awaits another scientist-author-statesman like Benjamin Franklin . . . someone with a mind that seeks the truth and will find the answers. And it is among our youth, quite naturally, that we look for one who will develop into tomorrow's Franklin.

But, to sustain our Nation's progress, just ONE more Franklin won't be enough. To bring about the betterments all our citizens want and need, thousands of fresh, eager and inquiring minds—thoroughly trained in many subjects—are needed.

Study and learn . . . prepare yourself to help unlock the door to your Country's tomorrow.
